PLATE PRINTERS MAKE PROTEST

Meeting of Union Held and Plans Discussed to Prevent Men Being Discharged.

FURLOUGHS SUGGESTED

Scheme Worked Years Ago—Many Labor Leaders Attend the Gathering.

Vigorous protest against the announced dismissal "without prejudice" on June 30 of twenty-six plate printers employed at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing was voiced last night by the Plate Printers' Local No. 2, at two crowded sessions at Pythian Temple, and endorsement was given to the proposed plan of retaining the full force and of letting the printers go off in rotation on short furloughs for the purpose of compensating for the existing slackness of work.

The sessions were the largest and most enthusiastic held by the plate printers in many a day, and the interest manifested on all hands testified mutely to the seriousness with which the men were viewing the situation. One session commenced at 5 o'clock in the evening, and another meeting was held at midnight, so that the night force at the bureau might attend. More than 600 printers attended the two sessions.

After stirring speeches had been delivered, the legislative and executive committees of the organization recommended the disapproval of the announced reduction in force and the endorsement of the furlough plan. The resolutions were adopted unanimously, all of the printers manifesting a willingness to share in the sacrifice rather than have a few of their number bear the entire burden of being thrown out of employment. All of the printers indicated that they would be willing to go off on furlough for the necessary period from time to time. It was pointed out that the adoption of this plan would cause the government neither trouble nor expense and would serve the same purpose as the dismissal of the twenty-six men. It was stated in the addresses that a number of years ago the bureau was accustomed to furlough the printers from time to time when work grew slack, and it was pointed out that if the method worked satisfactorily then, it could be adopted today without the least difficulty.

A committee will be designated to arrange for an interview with the secretary of the Treasury for the purpose of presenting to him the furlough plan and urging him to see that it is put into effect, thus saving the positions of the twenty-six men who are now in imminent danger of losing their positions.

The principal addresses last night were delivered by John H. Ferguson, president of the Maryland State and District of Columbia Federation of Labor; and E. Adams, of Columbia Lodge of Machinists, No. 102. Others who spoke were S. Edward Beach, chairman of the executive committee of the printers' local; George J. Cleary, chairman of the legislative committee; P. J. Ryan, member of the legislative committee; Charles T. Smith, editor of "Plate Printer," the official organ; Ed Moore, one of the prominent plate printers; John R. O'Neil, of the Baltimore Federation of Labor; and John A. McDonald, vice president of the Central Labor Union. William D. Clark, president of the local, presided.

The boys brought along their own suits, for where is there a youngster willing to pay the price of a hired costume when a makeshift outfit can be remodeled from Grandfather's cast-off summer underwear? And don't laugh, gentle reader, and think that this is hyperbolic jargon, for the remodeled suits were really there. One youngster wore a pair of "trunks" that were far from truncated; they reached well down on his shins. There was no question but what those same "trunks" were worn by Grandfather last summer despite the fact that the youngster had dyed them black, but what difference did that make? The boys were out for fun, not for an F Street afternoon promenade.

The two small pools were so packed that a fellow didn't have a show at swimming, and if he took a chance at diving, he was sure to light on somebody's head. In the large pool the big boys had a little better opportunity to demonstrate their rare aquatic accomplishments. They took racing strokes, swam like fish under water, turned from the highest springing board, dived flip-flop, and did all the other bathing beach stunts. There was all kinds of diving-fancy and otherwise.

The life guards had an easy day, for there were neither accidents or scrapes. Their sole occupation was to warn thoughtless little boys through big megaphones that their lights were in need of readjustment.

Dr. W. B. Hudson, the superintendent, was highly gratified at the attendance yesterday. In addition to Dr. Hudson, the force consists of an assistant superintendent, S. C. Cousins; four life guards, four key boys, two clerks, a matron, two assistants, and a building superintendent. The personnel includes Le Roy Birch, E. G. Taylor, Rudolph Schoenfeld, F. M. Nolan, Raymond Eichhorn, R. W. Ehrmantrout, D. L. Myers, John Ritzer, W. L. Milstead, Hattie Davis, Annie Lee, Joe Taylor, William Harrell, J. E. Bowman, E. L. Ballou, Nellie Brown, and Lena Brown. The women are matrons for women's days.

The smallest pool is twenty-two and one-half feet by forty-six feet, and is three and one-half feet deep. The middle-sized pool is forty-six feet by sixty-five feet, and is six feet deep. The large pool is forty-five feet by 106, and varies in depth from four and one-half feet to seven feet.

The bathing beach will remain open until September 15, although after August 15 it will close an hour earlier. The hours are from 10 to 12 a. m. and from 2 to 4 p. m. for boys, and from 4:30 to 7 p. m. for men. Women's days are on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays from 7 to 10 a. m., and on Wednesday afternoon from 2 to 6.

"Come on In, You Fellers, The Water's Out of Sight"

Splashing, Shouting, Whooping, Exultant Boyhood Attends Official Opening of Municipal Bathing Beach—Passed Without Mishap.

Scene at the Opening of the Municipal Bathing Beach Yesterday.

Splashing, dashing; diving and dipping, and striving hard to swim in pools packed like the proverbial sardine can, more than 1,000 of Washington's happy school-free youngsters yesterday made merry at the seasonal opening of the Municipal Bathing Beach.

Although the day was cool, the boys were not deterred in their long cherished desire to have in the refreshing water on opening day. So when the big clock at the side of the pools struck ten yesterday morning, there was a long line of hundreds of lads ready to shed their clothes, don their shirts and trunks, and leap into the turbulent waters—for they were ruffed and ruffled decidedly from the time the first dashing group of youngsters plunged in.

There were boys of all sizes and descriptions there. You could find the parentless, care-free boy who day after day romps the streets in his bare feet and rumpled dress, envied by every other youngster in the neighborhood; and you could also sight the so-called "stays," whose ma makes him wear his shoes and put on his collar and necktie and Sunday pants every time he goes down town. They were all there, for the bathing beach is a democratic center and the call of the cool gurgling waters is one of the sensitive soul of every normal lad.

The boys brought along their own suits, for where is there a youngster willing to pay the price of a hired costume when a makeshift outfit can be remodeled from Grandfather's cast-off summer underwear? And don't laugh, gentle reader, and think that this is hyperbolic jargon, for the remodeled suits were really there. #### Part of Campers Start Out to Prepare Grounds for Arrival of Comrades.

Two parties composing the advance guard of the Y. M. C. A. boys' department annual camp on the South River in Maryland left yesterday to prepare camp for the main party which leaves on special cars Tuesday, June 24, at 5 o'clock. The first party is navigating a small auxiliary launch around by way of Point Lookout, hence up the Chesapeake Bay to South River, and then to the camping grounds. They expect to reach camp in time to greet the arriving campers. The second party walked to camp. The party will reach camp late this afternoon.

The camp athletic programme has been completed and will consist of track and field sports as well as aquatic contests for three classes.

Prof. C. Edward Beckett will give swimming lessons for one day to day to beginners. Handsome silver buttons have been offered to beginners who learn to swim fifty feet, using any stroke and making one turn.

Every precaution is being taken to safeguard the health of the campers. All water used will be boiled before using. No swimming is allowed save at the appointed hours, and at these times a life guard will be constantly on duty. A doctor is accompanying the campers to camp and will remain during the entire period. The site is seven miles from Annapolis, Entering baseball between the Washington and the Baltimore Y. M. C. A. camp, which is established near by, will be arranged upon the arrival of the Washington contingent.

PANAMA RAILROAD DISCUSSED.

Board of Directors Can't Agree on Its Future Management.

The meeting of the Board of Directors of the Panama Railroad Company yesterday afternoon was adjourned without reaching a decision on the future of the road's operation after the Canal is completed.

Mr. Garrison favors the management of the line on the same basis as at present, with some modifications of schedule, but other members of the board held a different view. The future of the railroad probably will be left for final decision to Col. G. W. Goethals, in charge of canal construction.

LABOR MEN'S APPEAL IS ALLOWED BY COURT

Case of Gompers, Mitchell, and Morrison to Come Up for Retrial at Next Term.

ACTION OF TRIBUNAL SURPRISE

Chief Justice White announced today that the Supreme Court had decided to grant the writ of error and allowed the appeal applied for on behalf of Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison, officers of the American Federation of Labor, who were adjudged to be in contempt of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia for disobedience of the injunction issued against them five years ago on the application of the Burke Stevedoring Company of St. Louis.

The case will be argued on appeal at the next term of court. It was expected that the petition would be acted on last Monday but the Court made no announcement at the time and it was thought then that the matter would go over until fall. It was a matter of surprise today when the Chief Justice caused announcement to be made that the Court has passed on the petition.

The writ of error allowed runs to the Court of Appeals of the District which affirmed, after modifying it, the decree of the Supreme Court of the District adjudging the defendants to be in contempt. The contempt case involving the labor leaders has a "racted" nation-wide interest. It has survived the labor difficulty, out of which it grew, more than two years. In one form or another it has been in the courts for five years, and has been an issue of more or less importance in two presidential campaigns. It is before the Supreme Court for the second time. The strike in the Buckle Store and Range Company was settled, the plant unionized, and the man most responsible for bringing the labor leaders into the case for contempt, Van Cleave, of St. Louis, former president of the company, has since died.

MISS TURNBURKE'S BODY RECOVERED FROM RIVER

Men Out Rowing Discover It Floating a Mile from Scene of Drowning.

Shortly before last midnight the body of Miss Edna L. Turnburke, the school-teacher, who committed suicide Tuesday afternoon by jumping from Chain Bridge into the Potomac River, was recovered.

William C. Greenly, of 302 Holly Place, Takoma Park, and William N. Wood, of 278 T Street Northwest, were out rowing. About a mile above the Potomac Boat Clubhouse and near the Virginia side they saw something resembling a body floating. In the investigation they found it was the body of a woman. It was pulled into the boat and the two men rowed to the Potomac Boat Club.

The body was identified as that of Miss Turnburke. Later she was sent to Wright's undertaking establishment, where it will be prepared for burial. It was not decomposed.

When found the body was more than a mile from Chain Bridge, where Miss Turnburke jumped to her death.
